Job Description

The American Committee for Middle East Rights (ACMER) is pleased to launch its inaugural Leadership Development Program (LDP), a paid internship for undergraduate students and recent graduates. ACMER strongly encourages applications from individuals of Middle Eastern and North African (MENA) descent, as well as those with a demonstrated interest in MENA-related foreign policy, human rights, and national security. The LDP places participants in congressional offices and NGOs working on foreign policy, human rights, and national security. Students receive hands-on experience and direct exposure to the policymaking processes that define U.S. foreign policy.

Over the course of the fall semester, interns will work in congressional offices or DC-based NGOs where they will gain direct insight into the legislative and advocacy processes that drive U.S. foreign policy. Alongside their placements, ACMER offers structured professional development sessions and networking events designed to strengthen leadership skills and expand professional networks. The program aims to equip students with the tools and connections needed to launch careers on Capitol Hill and in the broader policy and advocacy community.

Program Objectives

- Promote MENA-American representation in U.S. foreign policy and encourage engagement with MENA-related issues
- Provide substantive, hands-on experience working in congressional offices and DC-based NGOs
- Deepen participants' understanding of U.S. policymaking and the legislative and advocacy processes that shape it
- Strengthen participants' leadership skills and professional networks through structured programming and networking events

Program Details

- Program Dates: September–December 2026 (exact dates flexible; commitment is approximately 3-4 months)
- Compensation: $5,000 stipend paid by ACMER
- Location: Washington, DC. Interns are responsible for coordinating their own housing for the duration of the program.

Eligibility Requirements

Applicants must be U.S. citizens who are currently enrolled as juniors or seniors in a full-time undergraduate program or recently graduated from their undergraduate program. While the LDP welcomes applicants from all backgrounds, it strongly encourages individuals of MENA descent, as well as those with demonstrated interest in MENA-related foreign policy, national security, or human rights. Candidates should ideally be pursuing degrees in international affairs, political science, law, or a related field, and must have a minimum GPA of 3.0 on a 4.0 scale. Preference will be given to applicants who reside in or attend school within the districts of participating congressional offices.

Application Procedure

To apply, please visit the application form where you will be asked to answer four short-answer questions, and upload a copy of your resume (2 pages max), a list of 2-3 references, and an unofficial transcript. The priority deadline is May 24, 2026 at 11:59pm PT. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis.
